

All about Trump

Trump's victory is slightly awkward because president Obama was criticising Trump just before the win and recommending Hillary Clinton as the next President of the United States of America but president Obama is now being forced to allow Trump into the White House (Obama's home if you didn't know) and change it and live in it and do whatever he want with it and also take his job! Trump was fairly lucky to win as first Hillary Clinton was winning but due to last minute surge votes he managed to get 270 college electoral votes and win the path to the white house. When trump was declared the 45th president of the United States many Clinton supporters and voters were crying at her campaign headquarters in Brooklyn New York. The few days after Donald Trump's win, many Clinton supporters and voters started to protest outside Trump Tower in New York and outside the White House in Washington D.C. and it is definitely clear that America is not welcoming Trump with a warm hug which is ironic as America voted for their new president. To combat these protests Trump is actually telling his voters and supporters to fight back.

The main reason why people voted for Trump is because people wanted a change. I personally say that America should accept that Trump won the presidential election because they chose Trump therefore they should stop arguing and get on because that's what the people wanted. Let's look at the policies; it is unlikely that Trump will build a wall along the Mexican and American border as his policies have to be approved by the congress. It is possible that he will deport all of these illegal immigrants and that this policy could be the reason why Trump won.

Written by reporter Ryan Year 8, working for the BBC and NSB politics' section.

