

Introduction to Religious Studies

OCR Religious Studies (Philosophy & Ethics)

H573

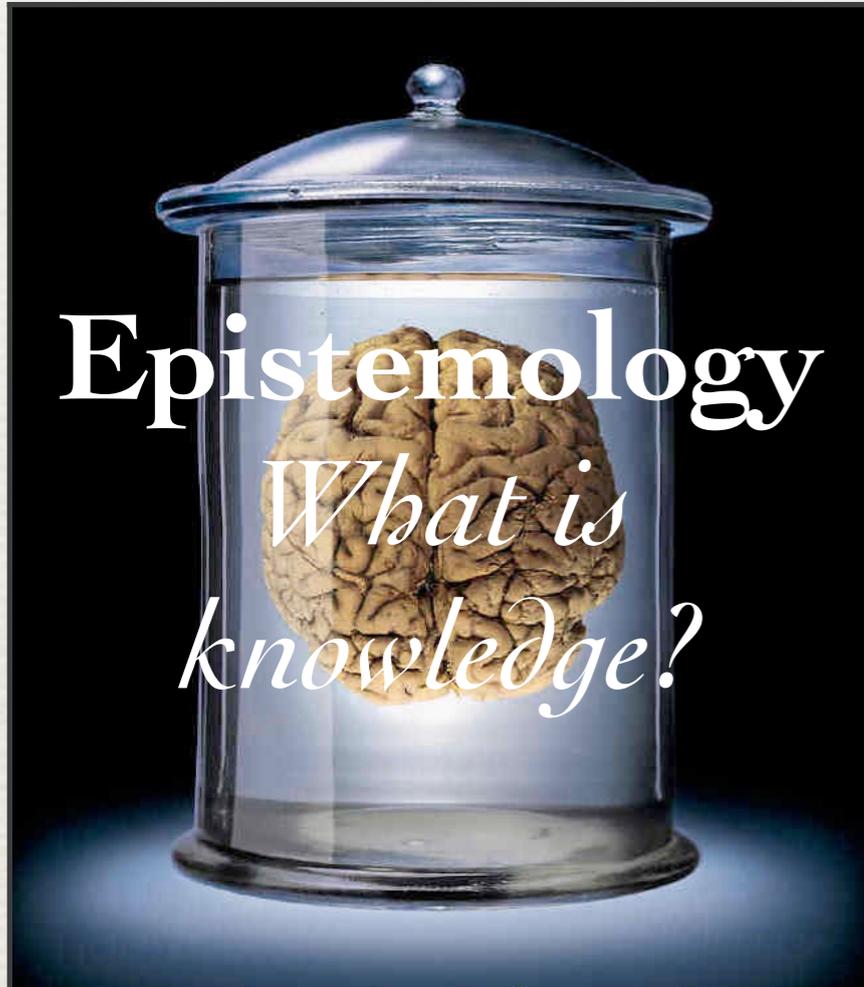

What is Philosophy?

Literally, a love (philos) of wisdom or knowledge (sophia)

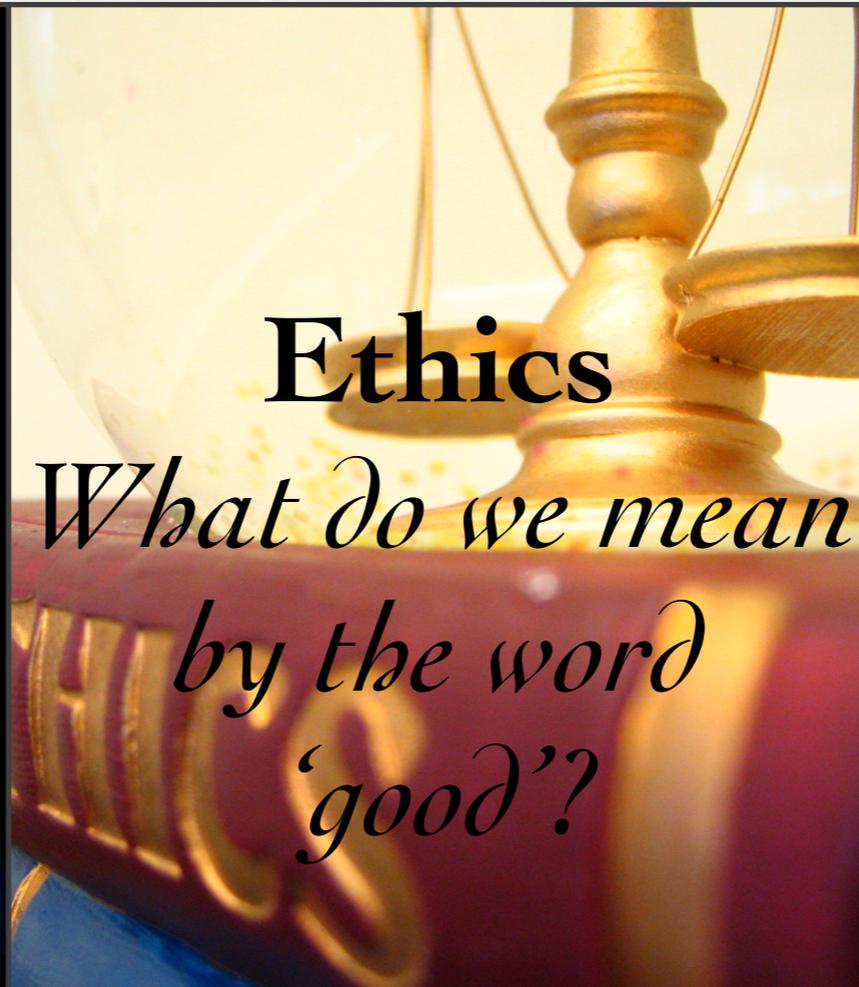

The Structure of Philosophy

Philosophy is guided by logic, it acts as a foundation on which we access knowledge, morality and reason.

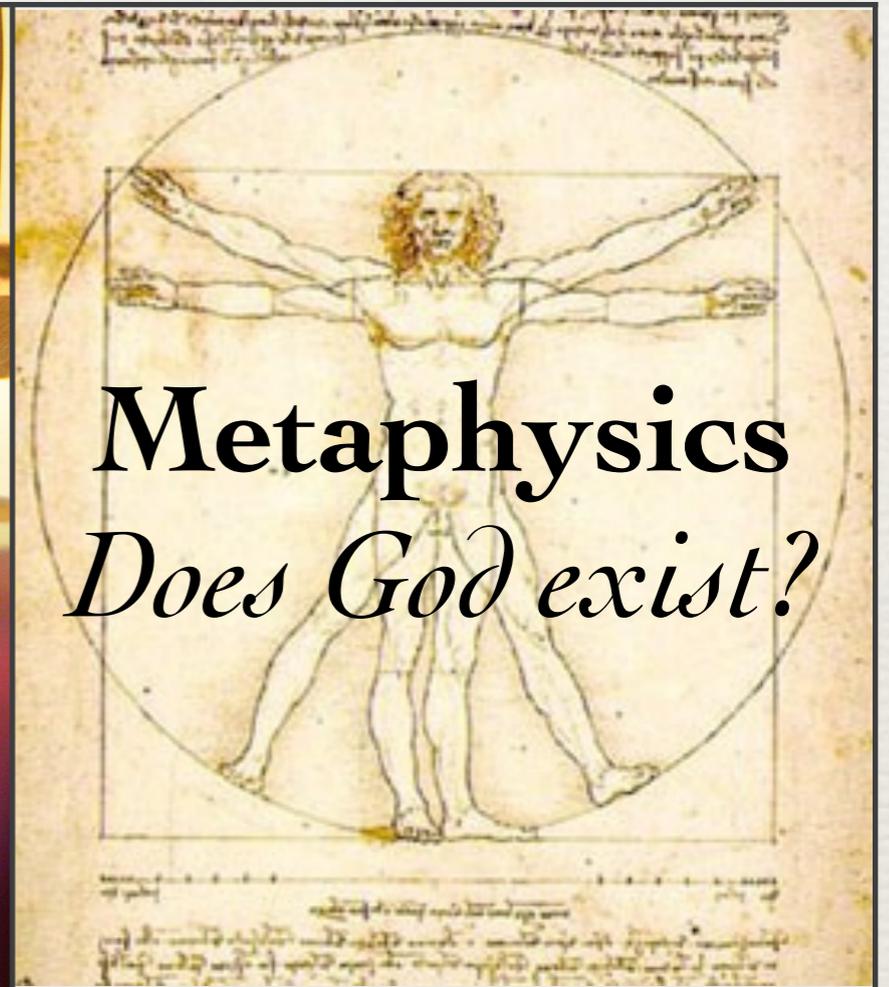

Epistemology

What is knowledge?

Ethics

What do we mean by the word 'good'?

Metaphysics

Does God exist?

Philosophical logic.

- ♦ Often we ask ourselves ‘What should we do’ or ‘what does this mean’, rather than the great question of ‘why’?
- ♦ Philosophy uses logic to consider these problems of ‘why’.

Some examples of philosophical questions - Can you try to reason an answer for any of these.

Why do we choose to ignore harsh truths?

What is the goal of humanity and why are we obsessed with finding it?

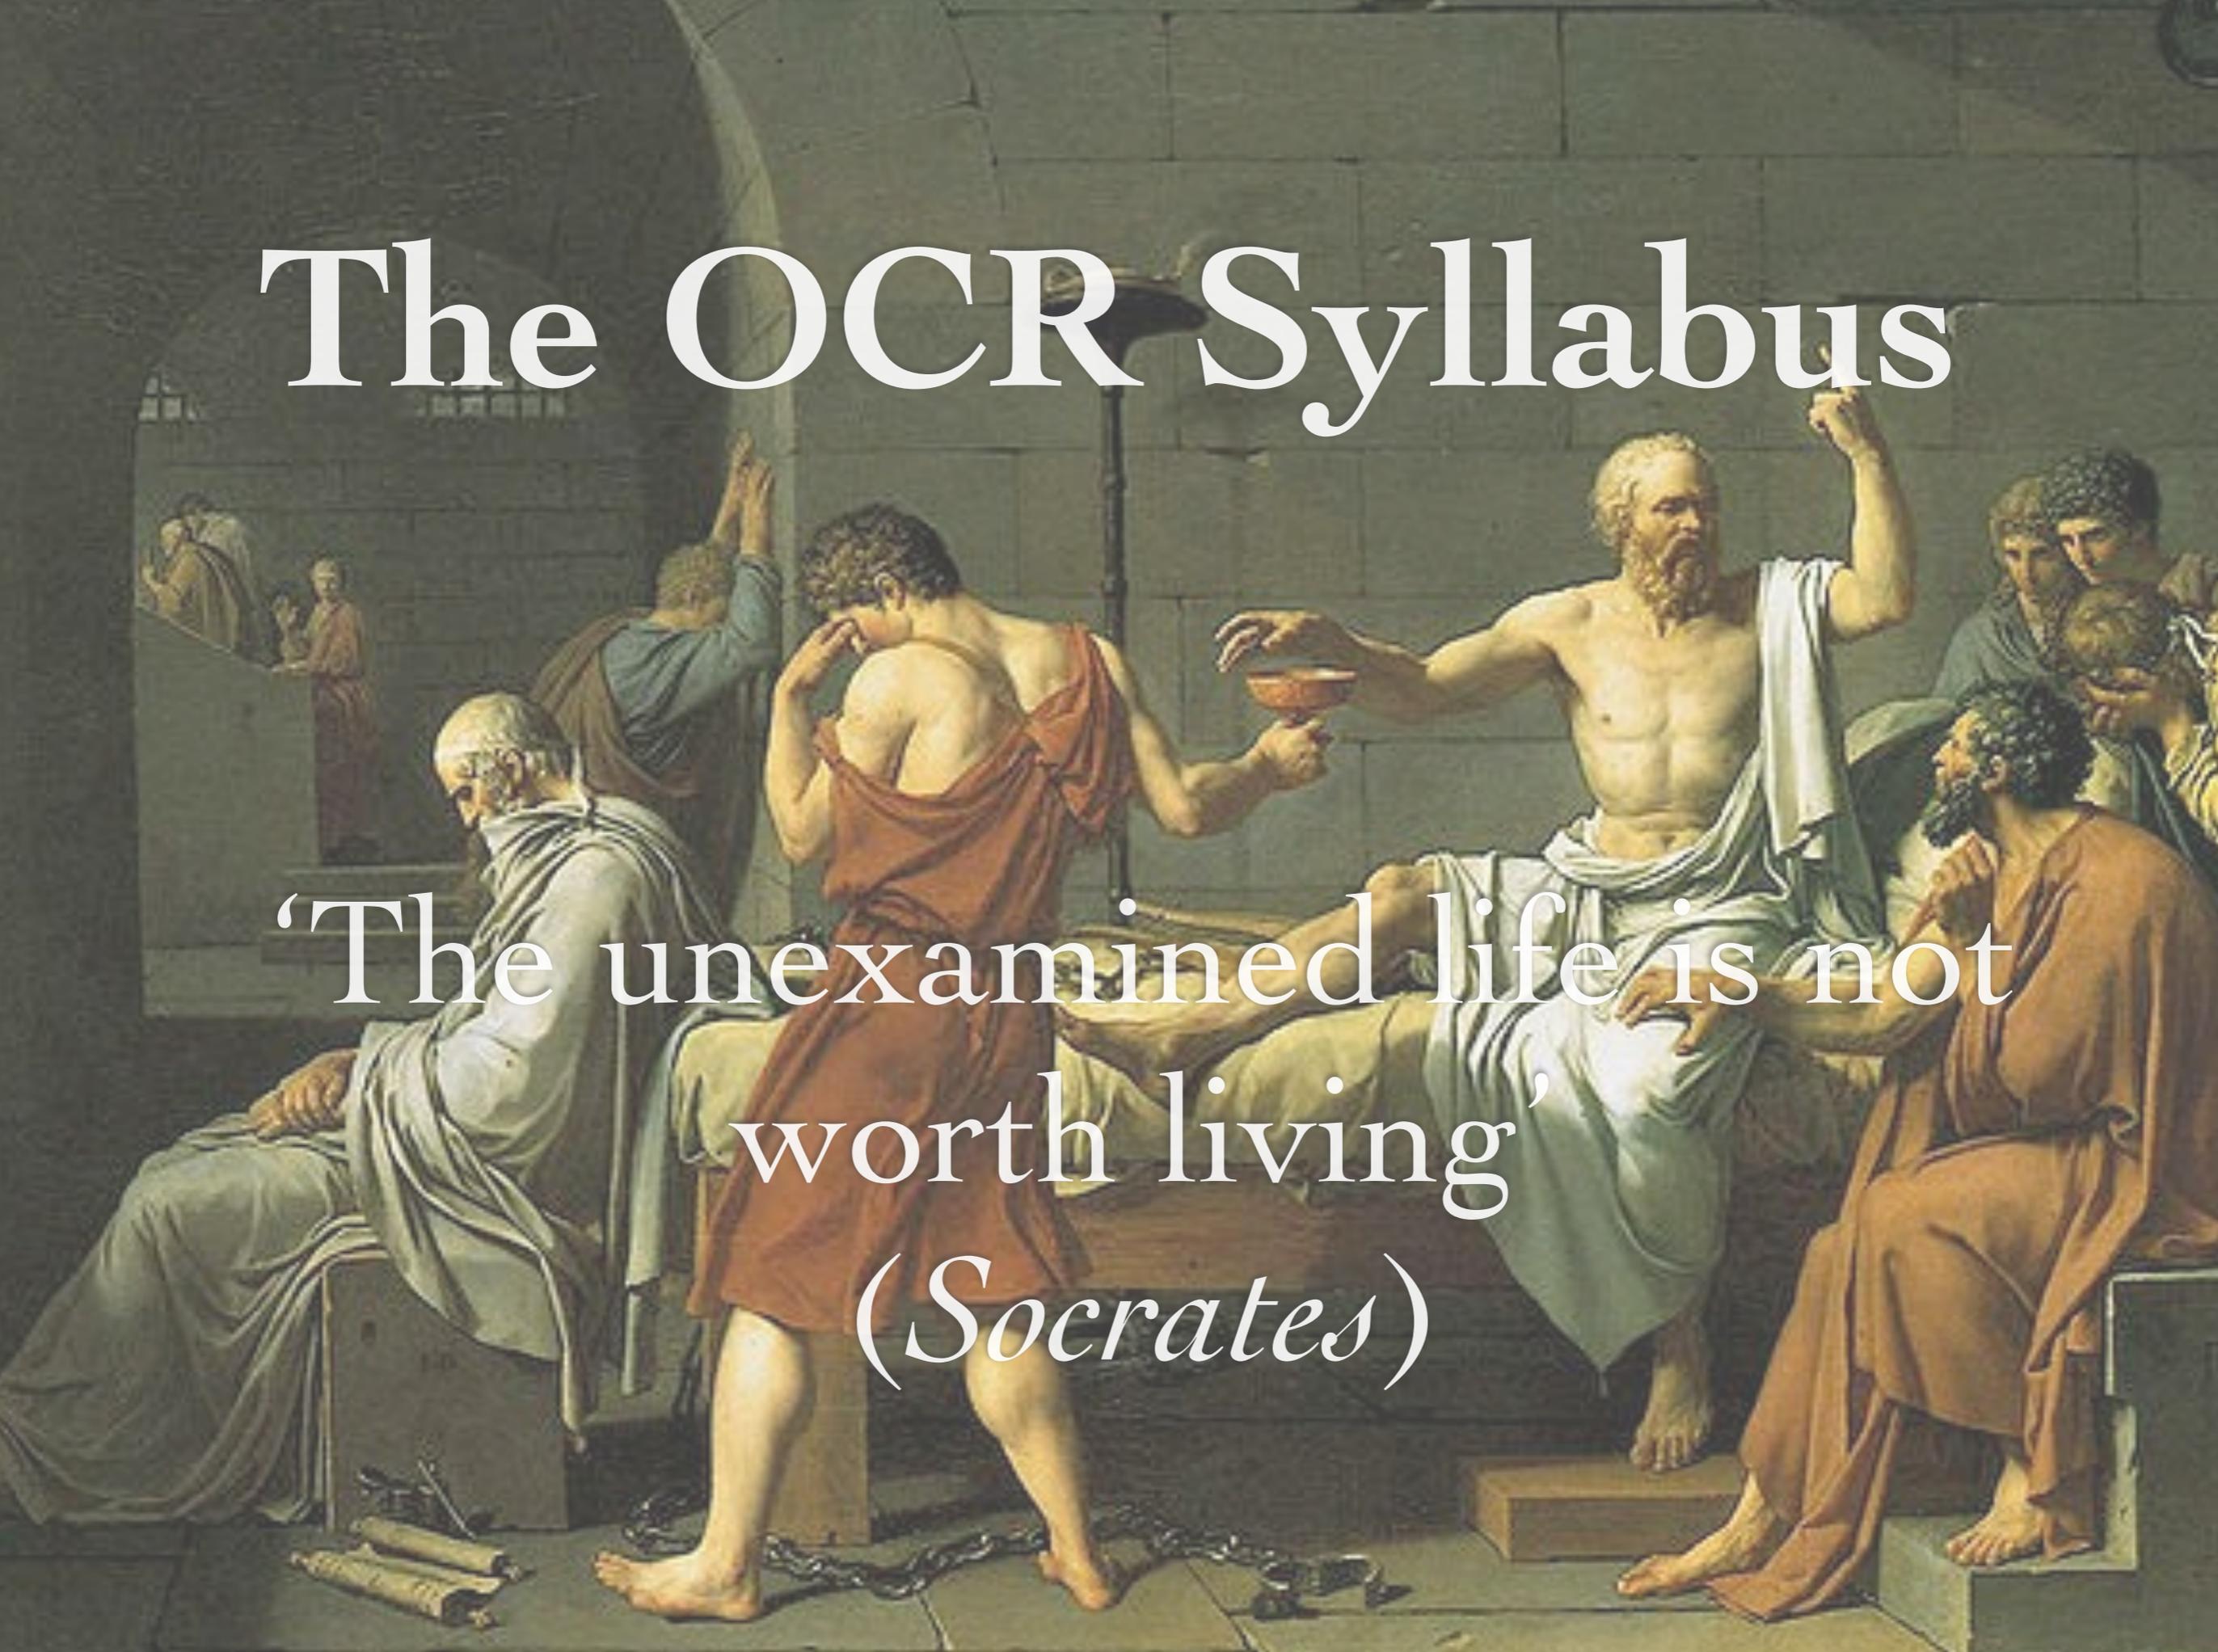

Why do we not trust is all religious experiences?

Is free-will just an illusion? Why?

Why do bad things happen to good people?

Is our understanding of God paradoxical? How?

The OCR Syllabus

The background of the slide is a reproduction of Raphael's fresco 'The School of Athens'. It depicts various ancient Greek philosophers in a grand architectural setting. Socrates is the central figure, seated on the right, holding a cup and gesturing upwards. Other figures include Plato, Aristotle, and several other scholars engaged in discussion or study.

‘The unexamined life is not worth living’
(Socrates)

(Related to Ethics-Utilitarianism)

The Standard Trolley problem

The Trolley Problem (Trolleyology)

You must assume that a Trolley is hurtling uncontrollably towards 5 people. There is no way to prevent this from happening, other than by pulling a switch causing it to go down a track and kill only one. What do you do?

Principle of Utility.

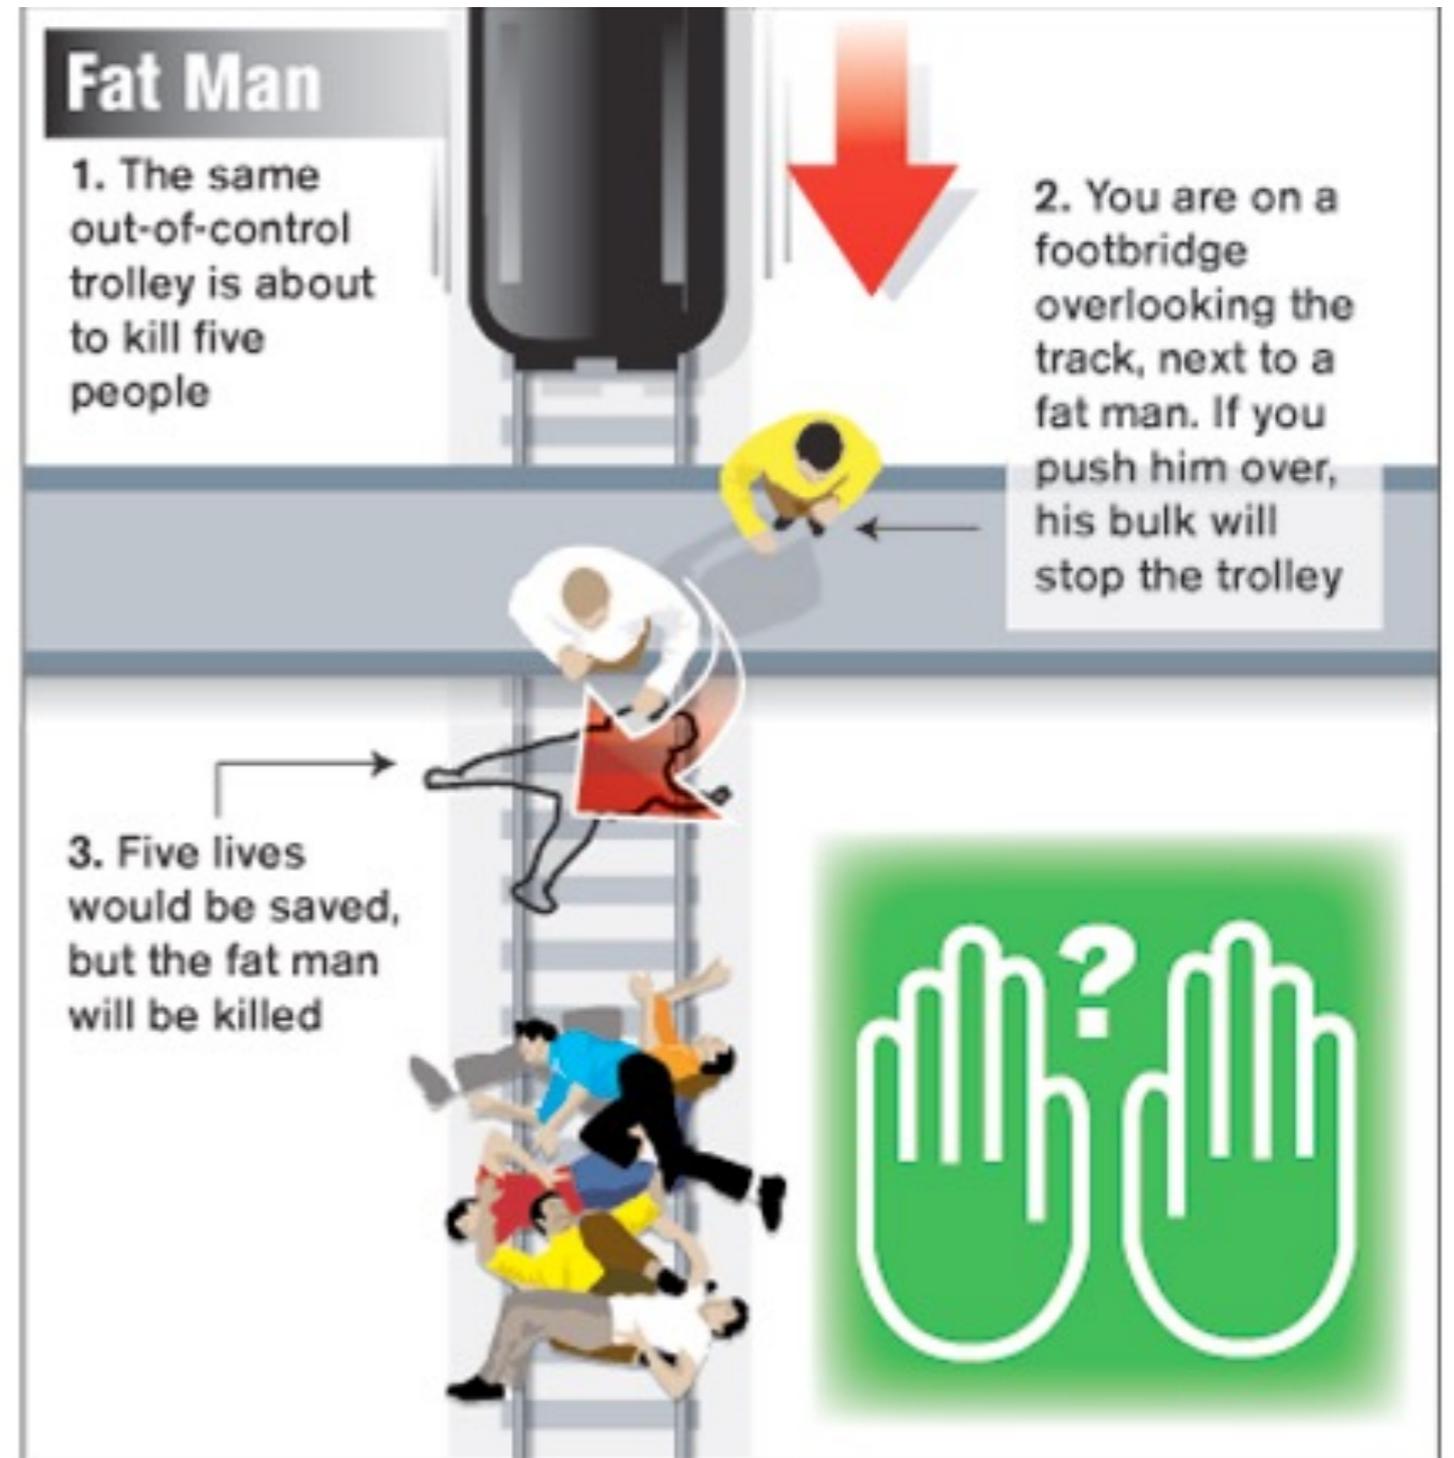

- ♦ Within Utilitarianism, they live by the principle of utility.
- ♦ This claims that what is good is the greatest happiness for the greatest number.
- ♦ This would mean that with the limited information available we can assume it is better to press the switch and save the 5.

The extension to Trolley problem -
Would you kill the fat man?

The Fat Man Variation

Lets change the situation. This time you are stood on a footbridge with a person large enough to derail the trolley if pushed onto it. This will kill him but save the five.

What do you do?

Are these two situations
that different?

Is it simply the indifference of distance?

Religious Studies Summer Home learning

Please complete the following essay style questions to return to each of your subject teachers next term. Each question should be at least a side and a half of A4 and should consider scholarly views other than your own as well as a clear argument with evaluative points and structure. You should include some research that you have done outside of your GCSE learning.

Philosophy

'The philosophy of Plato and Aristotle is no longer relevant to the modern world.' Discuss.

Ethics

Critically evaluate different ethical views on issues surrounding euthanasia.

Development into Christian Thought

Critically evaluate the view that there is no such thing as a fixed human nature.
